But even with the toils fight out of the way the Senate has not heard the last way the Senate has not heard the last of the Panama Canal's early diplomatic history. Secretary of State Bryan announced yesterday that he will send the Colombian treaty to the Senate next week. Against this a storm of opposition from Republican sources is assured, and much of the debate will be along the lines, followed by stand-pat Republicans in opposing the repeal bill.

As a matter of fact, fear that they would stultify themselves on the Collembian treaty question kept a number of Republicans, particularly friends of Coll Roosevelt, from voting in favor of Coll Roosevelt, from voting in favor of Collembia Republicans, particularly friends of ndry Civil Bill Contains Proviso that Organized Workers Be Not Molested.

Organized labor has again assert ed itself in the House of Representa-tives. This time the power of the American Federation of Labor is evi-denced in an amendment to the sundry civil appropriation bill, providing that no part of $350,000 voted to the De-partment of Justice for the enforce-ment of the anti-trust laws shall be used for the prosecution of any labor union or farmers' organization. This is the prohibition that was written into the sundry civil bill by Congress,
and which was accepted by President Wilson with seeming reluctance.
The significant fact about this reappearance of the exemption clause in the annual appropriation bill is that the President will now be squarely confronted with the issue of making a privileged class of union men in the enforcement of the Sherman law.

Has Humorous Side. The situation is not without its hu-morous side. The unions have contend-ed that the "labor sections" of the new nervousness as Williams proceeded. Not-withstanding, many Democratic Senators who apparently feared an encounter, were urging Williams to forego his cas-tigation of his colleague, Senator Will-iams waved them aside and proceeded calmiy and deliberately. One of the most interesting parts of the debate centered around the proposal for arbitration of the issue that had arisen in the course of the debate over the construction of the Hay-Pauncefote treaty. Senator Norris and Senator Suthanti-trust bill exempt them from pros-ecution; the administration says not, and now along comes the same old proposition in an appropriation bill, so clearly worded that there will be no opportunity for hair-splitting.

Leaders of both parties in Congress,
